The UW Department of Economics maintains a robust annual seminar schedule in International Economics and Macroeconomics, Econometrics, Microeconomics, and as part of our Joint Seminar in Development Economics partnership with the Information School and the Evans School of Public Policy & Governance. These seminars provide a forum fostering interaction and collaboration among our various communities of scholars.

All seminars are open to the public and are held in Savery Hall room 410 unless otherwise noted.

For more information about each seminar, visit our events calendar, which also lists our brownbag seminars coordinated by graduate students. Click on the links below to be taken to a list of seminars in each field:

- International Economics and Macroeconomics Seminars
- Econometrics Seminars
- Joint Seminar in Development Economics
- Microeconomics Seminars