Degree Audit Reporting System (DARS)

A great tool to use to track your degree requirements is the Degree Audit Reporting System, or DARS for short. Here's a quick tutorial on how to use this resource to help track your progress toward your major and graduation!

Satisfactory Progress Policy

Basically stated, the UW allows each student to earn 30 credits beyond the minimum number of credits required for that student to graduate. For students earning a degree with one or two majors, for example, the allowance is 30 credits beyond the minimum 180 credits required for a single or double major. For students earning a double-degree, the allowance is 30 credits beyond the minimum 225 credits required for a double-degree. For more about the Satisfactory Progress Policy, please see here. If you feel that you will be reaching some of these limits with your particular degree plan, please feel free to make an appointment with an adviser to review this policy.
