Mentorship Program Info for Students

HOW TO NETWORK: Reem Sabha and Isha Togare

The Department of Economics application to participate in the 2017-2018 undergraduate mentorship program is open until October 6, 2017. Specific information about how to apply will be shared with Econ majors in early summer 2017.

In general, graduating seniors are given priority in the application process. Your work experience, extracurricular activities, previous career preparation, and GPA all factor in the admission decision as well.

Students are encouraged to participate in the free programming offered through the mentorship program throughout the year.

Students meet at least quarterly with their mentors throughout the academic year, though we strongly encourage more frequent meetings. Topics addressed during mentor meetings are many, and may include:

- Defining career goals
- Resume feedback
- Interviewing skills
- Qualities employers seek in candidates
- How to conduct an active and effective job search
- Successful networking

Participants in last year’s program credited it with helping them develop meaningful interactions with business professionals and a better understanding of how classroom learning applies to the real world.

Curious about our mentors? You can see a list of our current mentors. You are welcome to indicate a specific mentor or mentors with whom you’d like to be placed on your application, but we can’t guarantee placement.

Student Expectations

As an Economics major and student mentee, you are a representative of the Department of Economics and the University of Washington in addition to representing yourself. As such, a high level of accountability and professional courtesy is required of you throughout the mentoring relationship.

A mentee is a student who is motivated to assume responsibility for her/his own professional and personal development. The partnership between a mentor and mentee is built upon a foundation of trust, respect, and professionalism. As a mentee, you will have the opportunity to:

- Learn about specific jobs, career paths, organizational cultures, and industries.
- Receive constructive feedback about personal and business skills.
- Obtain guidance about everything from networking to how to build a successful career over time.
- Gain insight into specific jobs, career paths, organizational cultures, industries and functions.
- Learn how executives face difficult challenges and find opportunities in today’s complex business environment.
- Receive feedback about your career goals and business skills.
- Obtain guidance about conducting yourself in business settings.
- Create a focused plan with your Mentor and work towards achieving your stated goals for this relationship.

Questions can be directed to:

Ellen Brown
Outreach Coordinator
Department of Economics
browne5@uw.edu
206-616-8024

Department of Economics · University of Washington · 305 Savery Hall, Box 353330 · Seattle, WA 98195-3330