Website: Catalyst course 'ECON 200C Spring 2015'

Course Objectives:

In this course you will learn the fundamentals of economics as a way of thinking about problems of resource allocation, balance of incentives, and decision-making. This will help you understand why firms and individuals make certain decisions, and why in some cases there are ways to improve welfare. You will find that the economic way of thinking extends to situations you might not have expected, such as environmental issues, marriage decisions, and drug use, among many others.

Textbook:

Principles of Microeconomics, 7th Edition by Gregory Mankiw

An older edition/second hand copy is fine for this class, as long as you are able to find and follow the material. There are no online packages required for this course.

Important study materials:

- Textbook
- Practice Problems

Grade:

- Quizzes (30% of total grade, each consists of 15% of total grade): There will be 2 quizzes (April 17 and May 22)
